It was in the days of King Harald Fair-hair son of Halfdan the Black son of Gudrod the Hunting King son of Halfdan the Mild and Meal-stingy son of Eystein Fart son of Olaf Wood-carver, King of the Swedes that a man named Hallfred brought his ship to Breiddal in Iceland below the district of Fljotsdal. On the ship were his wife and his son, who was named Hrafnkel. He was then fifteen winters old, promising and able...
